

Armenian Catholic Parish of Karasubazar, Crimea

Marriages 1884 – 1919

-- LDS Microfilm 2041508 through digital images accessible on the website <https://familysearch.org>

Section 9, beginning Image # 808 of this microfilm documents marriage records recorded in the Armenian Catholic Parish of Karasubazar. It appears that “our” Roman Catholic families were getting married, or having children baptized, in Armenian Catholic churches. For example, I finally located the 1917 marriage record of my maternal grandparents in this collection. Researchers of the Rosental German families will find many relevant records.

This microfilm records hundreds of marriages of non-Germans as well – the ethnic Slavs including Poles, even some French, Italian and Spanish families. So it is a real challenge to scroll through these records one by one in order to pick out records which contain German surnames. Some may have been missed.

The Armenian Catholic Church is one of 23 Eastern Rite Catholic Churches which accept the supremacy of the Pope in Rome. While these churches follow their own rites and liturgies, they are considered “in full communion” with the Roman Catholic Church in Rome. This explains why some baptisms, marriages and deaths of “our” Roman Catholic German families in Crimea were recorded in Armenian Catholic churches.
